

The Veterinary History Society

Meeting and Annual General Meeting

Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons
Belgravia House. 62-64 Horseferry Road, London SW1P 2AF

Wednesday 2 December 2015

- 10.30 Coffee
- 11.00 Andrew Greenwood John Hinds “Veterinary Surgeon”, John Badcock, John Bee – who was he?
Andrew is a founding partner of the International Zoo Veterinary Group and an RCVS Specialist in Zoo & Wildlife Medicine. He is a keen collector of old veterinary books
- 11.45 Alison Skipper The Birth of the Canine Health Scheme - was the Irish Setter a special case?
Alison qualified from Cambridge Veterinary School in 1989, and has worked in small animal practice in the South East ever since. She is currently part way through a history MA at King’s College, London with a view to subsequently undertaking a PhD investigating the history of inherited disease in dogs.
- 12.30 Buffet lunch
- 13.30 Esther Harper Racehorse healthcare in the 19th and early 20th century
Esther is a Collaborative Doctoral Award Student at King’s College, London and the National Horseracing Museum, Newmarket. She is researching the history of the science of horse racing in the 19th and early 20th century.
- 14.15 Briony Jackson The Horse Comes First – Veterinary Science in a National Heritage Centre Briony graduated from the University of Kent and then spent four years working as a Research Scientist in the pharmaceutical industry. As Scientific Officer, National Horseracing Museum she is responsible for the scientific content within the displays at the new National Heritage Centre for Horseracing and Sporting Art.
- 15.00 Annual General Meeting